TROUBLE AVERTED

"You must find that newspaper dreadfully interesting," said Mrs. Alcock rejoicingly after her husband had been immersed in its pages fifteen minutes or so.

"High!" asked Alcock, startled.
"Oh," he explained, "I was just reading about that aviation meet. I'd like an airship myself."

"Why," said Mrs. Alcock, "there'd be just about as much sense in your having an airship as in my insisting on getting that diamond necklace I saw in the window and liked! You couldn't run an aeroplane if you had it."

"I don't know about that," returned Alcock. "I don't know that I haven't as much brains as the ordinary man and it seems to me if I applied myself to the study assiduously and didn't stop for meals or sleep I might in time qualify to handle one of those things! It's too bad you have such a low opinion of my mental ability, Evangeline!"

"Oh, I'm not saying anything about your brains," explained Mrs. Alcock.
"It wouldn't take brains especially just to remember what levers to pull and push, but somehow I can't imagine your doing anything like that! It's so—so daring!"

"Oh, make me out a stick and a coward!" said Alcock, bitterly. "Of course you wouldn't care if I took my life in my hands every time I ascended—you hadn't thought of that!"

"Well, all I've got to say, Lucius Alcock," said his wife, indignantly, "is that any man with a family on his hands thinks precious little of his duties and responsibilities when he rushes headlong into idiotically foolish dangers! I'd like to know what Tommy and little Eva and I would do if you got all smashed up cavorting around in the air just for your own selfish pleasure and not giving a thought to those nearest and dearest to you! At least they ought to be dearest, but goodness only knows nowadays what men think, rushing off at every crazy notion!"

"That's always the way!" declared Alcock. "Women are not a bit progressive or interested in their husbands' advancement. All they care about is to have them trot along in the same dull old way, just so they turn in their pay checks at the end of the week! They haven't a thought above groceries and the gas bill!"

"Well, I'd like to hear what you'd say if I tried to feed you on pickled airships!" cried his wife. "Or if I ran gasoline through the gas pipes! I guess you'd think groceries and gas were pretty important things after all! You can't make the family's clothes out of airships, either!"

"Clothes!" echoed Alcock. "I suppose clothes are of more importance than the progress of the human race! I suppose you'd consider that necklace more necessary to the trend of civilization than an airship!"

"I don't see why not!" declared Mrs. Alcock, tapping on the table with her thumb. "I don't see why it isn't just as important for me to keep myself up and look as nice as I can and wear pretty things as the children won't be ashamed of their mother and you won't, either—though goodness knows I might change my dress five times a day and you wouldn't notice it!"

"That necklace wasn't expensive when you consider the clearness of the stones and you can always sell diamonds! I never heard of any one being able to pawn an airship! Why, an airship would be a perfect drag on the market, with no place to keep it, because the back yard is too narrow, besides there'd be no place to hang the washing on Mondays! And I'd never consent to your taking little Tommy out in it Sunday mornings, so I don't see what good it would do the family, Lucius Alcock!"

"Every bit as much good as your diamond necklace!" said her husband, smilingly. "I couldn't wear it and you couldn't even give it to Tommy to play with, because he might swallow it. And a man doesn't exactly buy an airship to amuse the family!"

"Well, all I've got to say," declared Mrs. Alcock, getting out her handkerchief, "is that a married man hasn't any business spending a lot of money on something his family can't enjoy with him! It's downright selfish, so it is, and I'll never have thought of you!"

"It's no more selfish than you and your diamonds!" asserted Alcock sternly. "All selfish ideas that's the worst!"

"You never want me to have anything I want!" kept Mrs. Alcock.

"You're always down on my buying things that I like," retorted Alcock.

His eye of that instant fell upon the lady in the rug and the stretched length of the table. A slow grin spread over the back of his head and he looked at Mrs. Alcock's little head as he sat on the table.

"Evangeline," he said, in a different tone, "be just as I'm getting out of hand a year and there are one of us I don't believe we really want to spend our money on things and things."

Alcock gave a final snarl and looked at his wife. "It is selfish," he said.

Alcock was the worst foe of his

The Fine Dark Bay Draft
Stallion Honest Bob.

The fine dark bay draft stallion will make the season of 1911 at my farm, 4 miles northwest of Keytesville, at $10.00 to insure mare with foal. Honest Bob is 16 1-2 hands high and will weigh about 1,500 pounds; has good style and action and is a sure foal-getter. This is a high grade Percheron, and his colts rank very high, having brought $100 each at 6 months of age.

Don Pedro

A No. 1 black jack, with white points, splendid head and ears and large bone; will make the season at the same time and place. Don Pedro has proven a sure foal-getter and his colts are first-class.
Terms $8.00 to insure mare with foal.

In all cases lien on mare until colt is foaled, and then colt is to stand good for the season. If mare is sold, traded or taken from the county, service becomes payable at once. Greatest care will be taken to prevent accidents, but I assume no liability should any occur.

Keytesville's city fathers believe in protecting the public against contagious diseases. See ordinance No. 33 advertised in this paper.

Tobacco weighing 100,000 pounds was shipped from Brunswick in a single week. How much did it net the men who grew it? How much did all the tobacco grown in Chariton county the past year net the growers? Will the crop this year weigh as much, and will it net more or less? Will tobacco growing increase here or will it almost cease? These are important questions to our people. From talk we hear it is judged that the tobacco outlook is not calculated to encourage cultivation of "the weed."

The Salisbury Democrat tells of a chicken that tried to swallow a log and succeeded in getting a splinter two inches long into its throat. It belonged to W. J. McCurry, who brought relief by chicken surgery. That chicken probably got one of the half pints mentioned elsewhere and felt that it could then swallow a tree.

Ordinance No. XXXIII.

Introduced by Alderman Moore, In Relation to Contagious Diseases.

Be It Ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Keytesville as follows:

SECTION 1. When it shall be reported to the Mayor that any person affected with, or who has been exposed to, any infectious or contagious disease is within the city, or within five miles thereof, or that such person so affected or exposed to any infectious or contagious disease is about to come into the city, or within five miles thereof, the Mayor shall immediately cause an investigation to be made by the Board of Health, or any member thereof, or by some competent physician; and if, in his judgment, the facts warrant it, he may cause said person or persons to be placed in quarantine, either in their own homes or in a public pest-house, and shall appoint proper guard or guards to watch over them, and take such other steps as may, in his judgment, be necessary to prevent the spreading of such diseases, and the conduct of such person or persons thus quarantined, and those in charge of them, shall be under the supervision of the City Board of Health.

SECTION 2. The reasonable expenses of the Mayor, or the Board of Health or any member thereof, in carrying out and executing the provisions of the preceding section, shall be paid by the city when the account for said expenses is properly made out and signed by the Mayor, or the members of the Board of Health incurring the same, and presented to the Board of Aldermen.

SECTION 3. The Board of Aldermen may, at any time, when they may deem it necessary for the prevention of the spreading of infectious and contagious diseases, purchase or condemn, and hold for the city, within or without the city limits, within five miles therefrom, all necessary lands or buildings for the establishment of a pest-house; provided, however, that the condemnation of any property outside of the city limits shall be regulated in all respects as the condemnation of property for railroad purposes is regulated by law.

SECTION 4. Any person or persons suffering from any infectious or contagious disease, or who shall have been exposed to the same, who shall willfully appear on any of the public streets of the city, or if non-residents of the city, shall come within the city limits, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100.00, or by imprisonment in the city jail not exceeding 60 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SECTION 5. All ordinances, or part of ordinances, in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Read first and second time and engrossed April 5, 1911.

Read the third time and passed April 6, 1911.

Approved this 6th day of April, 1911.

Attest: R. D. EDWARDS, City Clerk.

J. T. DEWEY, Mayor.
